Verse I:

Brisk, frantic \( \frac{j}{q} = 144 \)

Where's the bathroom, where's the bathroom? I need to use the bathroom, tell me that you have a bathroom in this hovel you call home. I don't know which was bumpier, the mean that as an insult, I'm just stating it as fact.

I see your eczema is back.

Are you using the lotion that I sent you? If you're not gonna use it, I'll return it to the store.

God, I give you everything and still you just want more, more, more, more, more!

Where's the Verse 3:

You haven't told me where your bathroom is.

Rebecca: It's upstairs!

O.K., fine, I need the walk.

Well, your house is... dot dot dot charming, though some flor- als wouldn't kill you. Do you ever get a maid here? It's so nice to sit and talk. Since when do you have a ven-det-ta against vases? When did you stop wearing make-up? Are you sure that you're not gay?

I'd still love you if you were gay, it would explain this vase vendetta, please just tell me if you're gay.

Rebecca: Again, I am not gay!
Don't interrupt me! You're always with the talking! I just got off a plane, give me a moment to catch my breath! It's the least you can do since you lived inside me for nine months. And you still haven't told me where the hell your stupid bathroom is!

Verse 4:
Brisk, frantic and agitated  \( \Rightarrow 162 \)

You call that a bathroom? That's what passes for a bathroom? There were no bowls of rocks or any decorative soaps. You don't even have a bath-mat! Who doesn't have a bath-mat? If you need a bath-mat I can... Oh!

Mounting agitation a fine $j = 164$

Did you hear? A bishop in Wisconsin said something anti-semitic so the temple has decided to boycott cheddar cheese! Everyone asks how you're doing:

"How is little Becky? Is she still a big-shot lawyer?" And to that I just say: "Please!"

Verse 5:

get a husband this way. At least you have your career. Oh, wait you threw out your career to chase this California dream. I wasted all that dough on Harvard and Yale for you to be living in a dump in No-where U. S. A. getting fatter by the minute on this greasy goyish food. Just put my lug-gage in my room. Could I get a glass of wa-ter? I'll be back in a mo-ment, I need to use the bath-room a-gain!
